

I find that in the present day, urban architectural organisation and geographic design, is how to state this in the most concise fashion as able? It is just that it completely is devoid of “earth”. I can say, at least for in regarding my perception of it, I am not infrequently fucking feels that I’m tumbling amongst the three dimensional axis. At least this keeps me imaginative and productive.

Prohibition was the only direct cause of that mass extinction.